UnderEXPOSED is a documentary series following a team of extreme sport photographers.

They asked my employer, Saucal, to design and develop a mobile application that allow the series' fans to upload their own action video, mix it with predefined audios and get their Mix-Reel exposed.

The app itself is pretty simple and straight forward. The only challenge was: how to make the design works with the Cree language, in which, each word usually much longer than its english counterpart.

The first page of Mix menu contain an instruction on how to do a Mix-reel

MojitoSites Dashboard

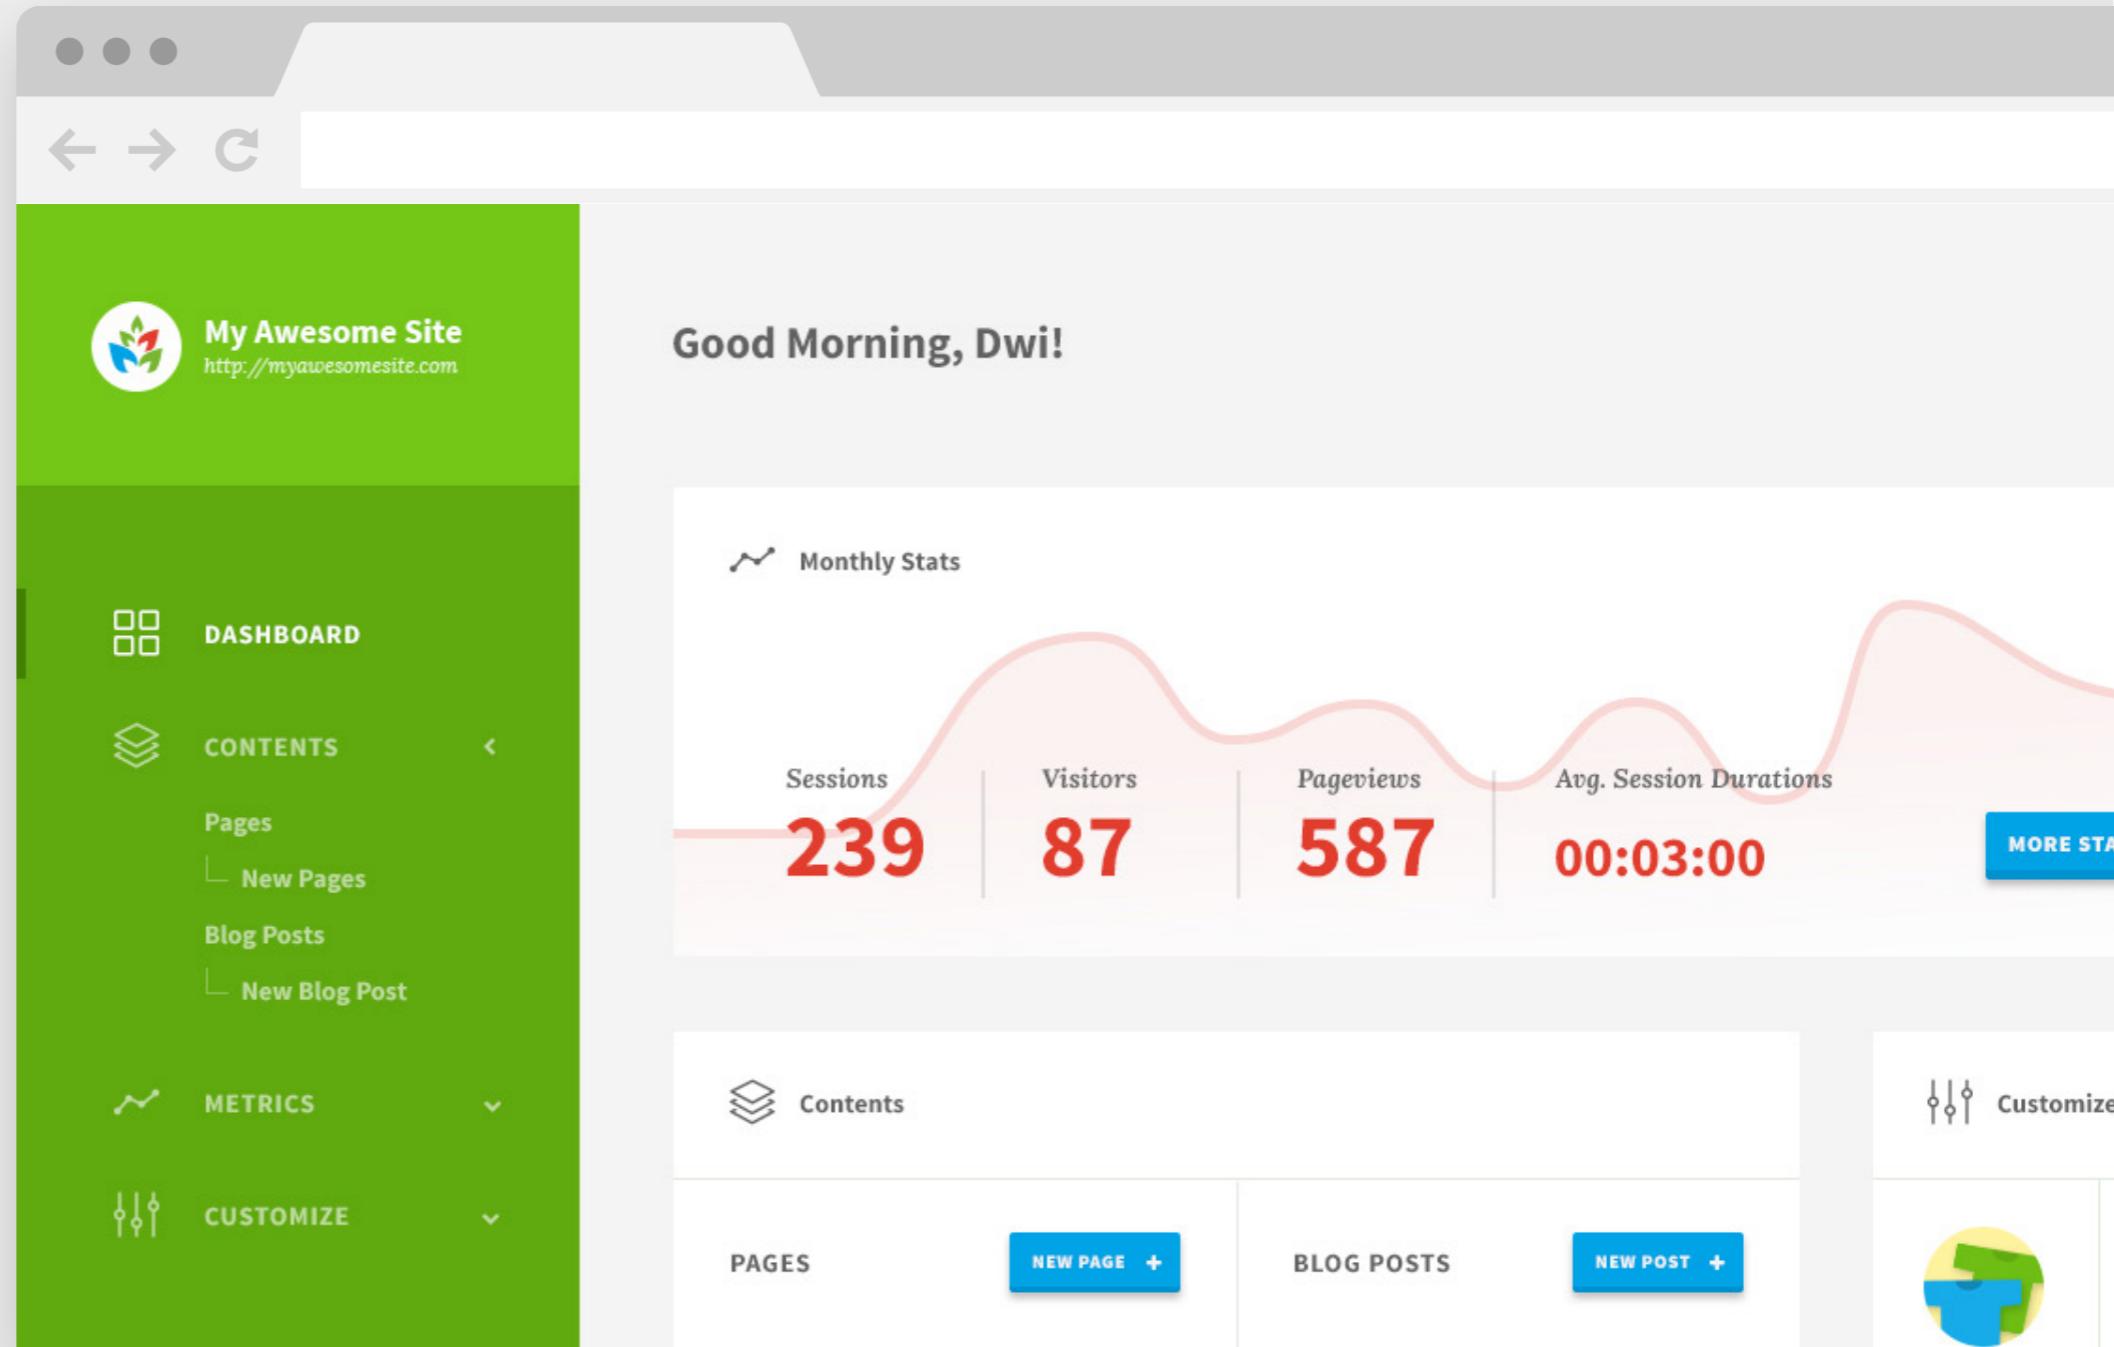

Saucal Studio 2016

MojitoSites is my employer's side project. MojitoSites basically is a hosted, minimalized WordPress service.

Although WordPress is considered as a user friendly piece of software, but for some people it still viewed as a complicated system.

In this project my responsibilities was designing the next iteration of its User Dashboard along with some front-end themes.
